Number	Name	Definition
3172	Computer projector	An optical instrument which projects an image from a computer signal onto a projection screen or other surface, using an intense light and one or more lenses to focus the image.
3173	Digital video disk	Disc like a CD-ROM that has storage (minimally 4.7 gigabytes) and can provide digital video.
3174	Electronic whiteboard	An optical instrument that is a presentation display system for use in a classroom or videoconference (i.e., it is the electronic equivalent of chalk and a blackboard).
3175	Graphing calculators	An electronic calculator that has the capability to compute and display functions in graphical form.
3176	Laptop/notebook computer	A portable personal computer that is small enough to fit on a person's lap (i.e., it weighs less than eight pounds). Laptops are usually capable of being powered by rechargeable batteries.
3177	Monitor	A device similar to a television screen that receives video signals from a computer and displays the information for the user.
3178	Multimedia computer	A computer capable of presenting more than one media type (e.g., text, graphics, video, and audio) simultaneously.
3179	Overhead opaque projector	An optical instrument which projects an image from an opaque image (e.g., a piece of paper) onto a projection screen or other surface, using an intense light and one or more lenses to focus the image.
3180	Overhead transparency projector	An optical instrument which projects an image from a transparency onto a projection screen or other surface, using an intense light and one or more lenses to focus the image.
3181	Personal computer	A "small" computer based on a microprocessor and designed for a single user, although personal computers can be networked to communicate with other personal computers, mainframes, or minicomputers.
3182	Printer	A piece of peripheral equipment that translates electronic signals from a computer into images on paper. Common types of printers include dot matrix, ink jet, laser, impact, fax and pen and ink devices; many are capable of producing either black-and-white or color images.
3183	Scanner	An input device that digitizes hard copy (e.g., paper documents, photos) into an electronic image represented as binary data.

Number	Name	Definition
3184	Server	A computer or device on a network that manages network resources. For example, a file server is a computer and storage device dedicated to storing files. Any user on the network can store files on the file server. A print server is a computer system that manages one or more printers and a database server processes database queries. It is possible to partition the space on one computer to create more than one server.
3185	Videoconferencing/distance education equipment	Interactive video-based communication.
3186	Videocassette recorder	A device that can record from a television including the images from a video camera on magnetic tape and the ability to playback prerecorded tapes.

3247	Central kitchen	A kitchen used for the production of food (full meals or parts of meals such as bakeries) for facilities other than that of the central kitchen.
3248	Production kitchen	A kitchen used for the production of food (full meals or parts of meals such as bakeries) for that facility and for other facilities.
3249	Self-contained kitchen	A kitchen used for the production of food for that facility only.
3250	Non-production kitchen	A kitchen that is used for the instruction of the culinary arts. This type of kitchen does not produce food to be served.
3251	Dish return area	A space for waste disposal, dishwashing, dish racking, and general cleanup of materials used in the preparation, serving, and consumption of food.
3252	Trash disposal area	A space for the disposal of trash.
3253	Recyclable materials area	A space for the separation and disposal of recyclable materials.
3254	Food receiving area	The area in which food is received from the central kitchen or food service vendors.
3255	Traditional food-based menu planning approach	Schools comply with specific component and quantity requirements by offering five food items from four food components. These components are: meat/meat alternate, vegetables and/or fruits, grains/breads, and milk. Minimum portion sizes are established by ages and grade groups.
3256	Enhanced food-based menu planning approach	A variation of the Traditional Menu Planning Approach. It is designed to increase calories from low-fat food sources in order to meet the Dietary Guidelines. The five food components are retained, but the component quantities for the weekly servings of vegetables and fruits and grains/breads are increased.
3257	Nutrient standard menu planning approach	Sometimes called "NuMenus", a computer based menu planning system that uses approved computer software to analyze the specific nutrient content of menu items automatically while menus are being planned. It is designed to assist menu planners in choosing food items that create nutritious meals and meet the nutrient standards.
3258	Assisted nutrient standard menu planning approach	Sometimes called "Assisted NuMenus" is a variation of Nutrient Standard Menu Planning. It is for schools that lack the technical resources to conduct nutrient analysis themselves. Instead, schools have an outside source, such as another school district, State agency or a consultant, plan and analyze a menu based on local needs and preferences. The outside source also provides schools with recipes and product specifications to support the menus.

Number	Name	Definition
3259	Alternate menu planning approach	This menu planning approach allows states and school districts to develop their own innovative approaches to menu planning, subject to the guidelines established in our regulations.

3266	Built-in equipment	Is an integral part of a building; that is, permanently fastened to the building, functions as a part of the building, and causes appreciable damage to the building if it is removed. It is permanently attached to a site and functions as a part of the site (except buildings or other structures). Built-in equipment is sometimes referred to as fixed equipment.
3267	Movable equipment	Can be transportable from one location to another without appreciable damage or change to the location from which they are removed or to the location where they are installed. (A piece of equipment that is simply bolted or screwed to the floor, such as a heavy lathe or desk, and that can be moved as a unit once these fasteners have been removed, is movable equipment.)
3268	Art	Equipment designed for teaching and learning of visual arts.
3269	Performing arts	Equipment designed for instruction and support of music and drama curricula and productions.
3270	Science materials	Equipment designed for instruction and experimentation in science.
3271	Technology materials	Equipment for the purpose of meeting the educational needs of students or for the operation and administration of an educational unit. Requires power source to operate.
3272	Indoor athletic	Equipment designed for indoor instruction and support of a physical education curriculum and athletic program.
3273	Outdoor athletic	Equipment designed for outdoor instruction and support of a physical education curriculum and athletic program.
3274	Food service materials	Equipment designed primarily for preparing, serving, consumption, or clean-up of food.
3275	Operations/maintenance	Equipment designed primarily for conducting activities concerned with maintaining the grounds and buildings.
